The Best of Seal Beach

Ted M. Apodaca
Editor

Welcome to this year's publication of winners in the annual Best of Seal Beach poll. Congratulations to all the winners and thank you to the community for participating and voting for your favorites. There are many things that make Seal Beach special and the best place to get a burger or happy hour specials only begin to scratch the surface.

What truly makes Seal Beach special are the people who live and work here and who care for the city and its residents and visitors. Like all the voting, narrowing down those choices can be difficult. How do you choose just one firefighter or life guard as the best of, given that they all have chosen to take on job that could require them to place their own life on the line to help someone?

This year, the voting for best firefighter may have been a little easier, given the situation of this year's winner. Since November, Steve Chafe has been battling back from a brain tumor that required emergency surgery. Steve is a local, who grew up here and has spent his adult life serving the community. When he fell ill, the community returned the commitment to Steve and have found ways to help him and his family.

In the big picture, those are the moments when the Best of Seal Beach rings true. Sure, there are lots of nice places to eat, or buy a gift for a friend's birthday, but when the call to serve arises, there is no shortage of people and organizations who are willing to step up to help.

The Best of Seal Beach offers a fun opportunity for people to weigh in on their favorite things about the city. But it is the dedication to and love of the town by the people that makes Seal Beach unique.

So again, thank you to the voters and contributors to this year's contest and we hope you enjoyed making your voices heard and recognizing the efforts.
